

INTERDEV Earns ArcGIS Online Specialty Designation from Esri

Distinction Recognizes INTERDEV's Proven Set of Value-Add Services and Solutions that Help Users Implement and Optimize ArcGIS Online

ALPHARETTA, GA – July 14, 2015 – INTERDEV, an Atlanta based provider of information technology and security services, today announced that Esri, the world's leading mapping technology company, has named INTERDEV a member of its ArcGIS Online Specialty. This designation is awarded to Esri partners who demonstrate the ability to sell, implement and develop solutions and services for ArcGIS Online.

“We are honored to earn this recognition from Esri, and to have the opportunity to become even more involved with such a game-changing platform,” commented INTERDEV CEO Gary Nichols. “ArcGIS Online is empowering public and private sector organizations to analyze, visualize and navigate their geospatial environments in ways they never before imagined.”

ArcGIS is the GIS industry’s leading software platform for developing and managing geospatial information and solutions. It enables users to perform deep spatial analysis and better understand their data and assets, leading to improved business decisions.

As a member of the specialty, INTERDEV is receiving recognition for its deeper technical skills as well as the services it provides to ArcGIS Online users, and the solutions, web maps and apps the company has developed using ArcGIS Online.

“We look forward to assisting our clients, both existing and new, develop innovative solutions powered by this remarkable technology,” said Nichols. “INTERDEV’s decades of experience in information technology, paired with our Esri expertise, uniquely qualifies us to help them achieve this goal.”
