“By achieving a silver competency, partners have proven themselves as specialized technology experts with the skills needed to best serve customers,” said Jon Roskill, corporate vice president, Worldwide Partner Group at Microsoft Corp. “The silver competency in the Microsoft Partner Network is designed to help customers identify services and solution providers that have demonstrated proof of their capability to deliver quality outcomes and customer satisfaction.”

The Midmarket Solution Provider competency recognizes organizations that have demonstrated expertise in providing critical infrastructure solutions, based on the most current Microsoft desktop, business-management, and server technologies, that are tailored to help midmarket businesses with their unique challenges.

“Receipt of the Silver competency gives a nod to the efforts we’ve made to prepare for and support the unique technology requirements of today’s midmarket organizations,” said InterDev CEO Gary Nichols. “Small and medium-sized businesses are one of the fastest growing segments of today’s economy as well as among our customer base.”
